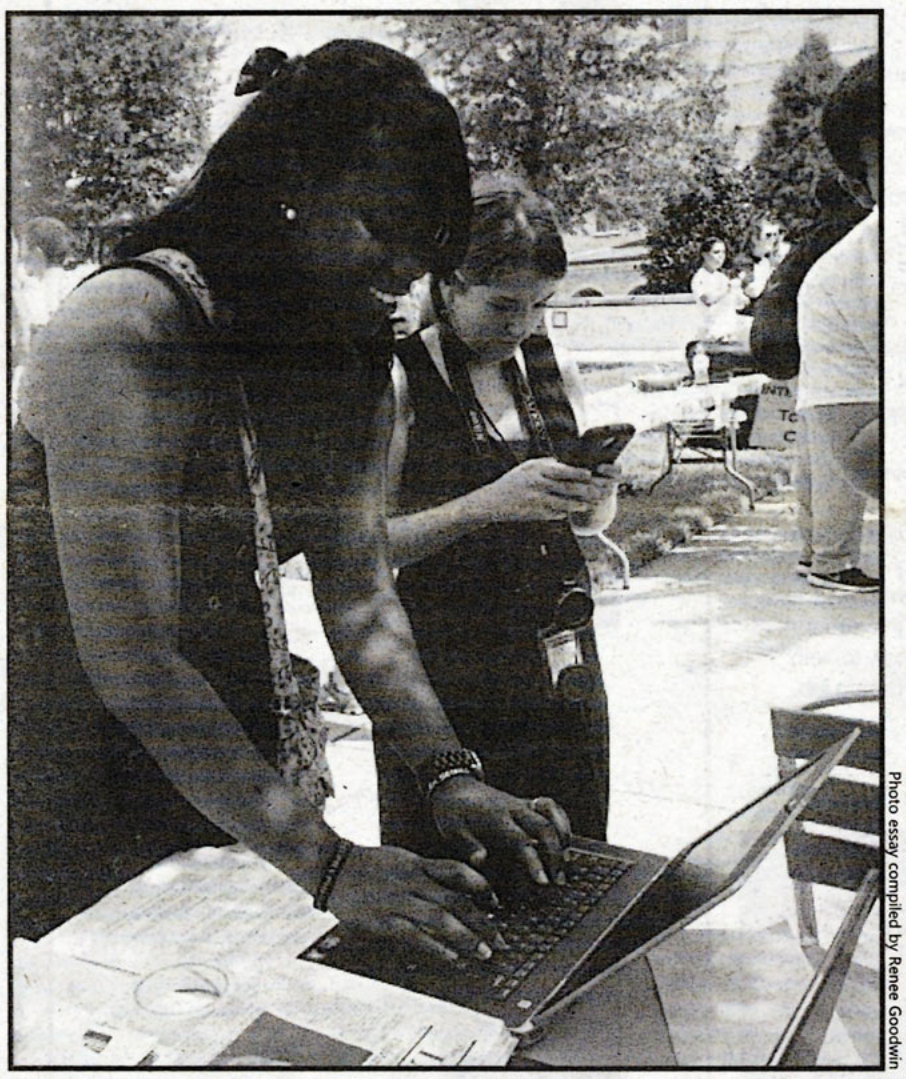
The Lions' Pride

SAINT LEO UNIVERSITY • FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 2014 • VOLUME LIII NO.3 • SINCE 1965

Students Sample Organizations at Involvement Fair



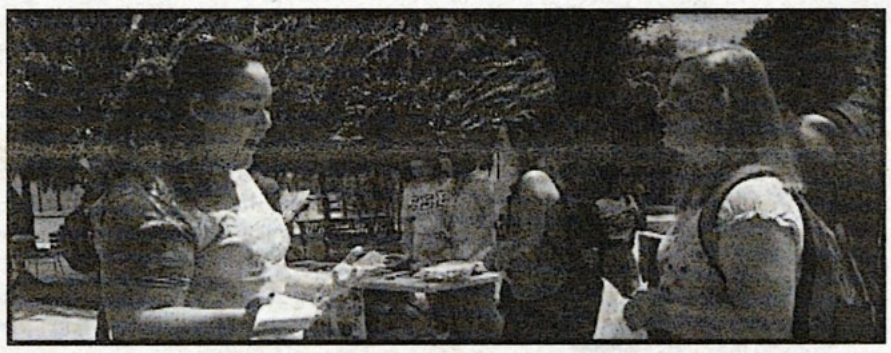


Photo essay compiled by Renee Goodwin

Clockwise: (1) Crystal Bryant, sophomore, Caitlin Giles, junior, Randall Gains, junior, and Marlie Gonzalez spent the hot Florida afternoon at the involvement fair handing out popsicles and raising awareness for Alpha Phi Omega, the national service fraternity on campus. (2) SERVE (Students Engaged in Rewarding Volunteer Experiences) members stand with their table. SERVE is one of the service organizations on campus that focuses on community involvement and organizing mission trips. (3) Lola Manley, junior, speaks with a student about the clubs, I Am That Girl, which focuses on transforming women's self-doubt into self-love. (4) The Lioness Dance Team members Nia Nixon, sophomore, Jasmine Weaver, junior, and Brittany Greene, senior, raise interest for their athletic club. (5) Renee Wright, junior, signs into her Facebook to "Like" The Lions' Pride newspaper after signing the club's interest sheet.

Involvement Fair Provides Opportunity

By Kenna Dieffenwierth

Staff Writer

September 5 was a hot and humid day, but many students still came out to support the University's organizations at the annual Involvement Fair.

Representatives from the various clubs and organizations on campus came out to encourage students to get more involved. Each table provided curious students with information and gave them a taste of the organization represented. The types of organizations on campus include: honors, multicultural, professional and departmental, religious and service, special interest and Greek Life. These were all represented at the fair

Water was provided to keep students hydrated. There was also music playing to set an upbeat mood for the event. Groups used various props and freebies like posters, flyers, pictures, pamphlets, candy and popsicles to draw in interested students. One group even hosted an opportunity to take part in the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge.

Involvement on campus helps students to fully integrate into the University's community and provides opportunities for students to exercise the core values. Joining an organization can also help students to make friends, develop leadership and teamwork skills, and begin networking.

UTS Technology Information

Answers from Manny Rodriguez

When will student-issued laptops have Windows 8 instead of Windows 7?
All new student laptops are issued with Windows 8.1. Students who currently have Windows 7 and wish to upgrade, providing their current laptop is a Saint Leo issued device and able to handle Windows 8.1, can be upgraded. Any upgrade requests requires an appointment with our support team in advance by calling x8888 or submitting a request online at http://helpdesk.saintleo.edu.

When the student-issued laptops start coming with Windows 8, will they be touch screen laptops?
All newly issued laptops, since fall 2013, are touch screen enabled.

Is UTS considering changing laptop brands?
Since fall 2013, we have deployed the LenovoTwist Multitouch Ultrabooks with Windows 8.1 to our freshmen (first year experience) students.

Local News

The Truth About Job Hunting Websites

By Tom Buckley
Staff Writer

Anyone looking for a job on job search sites such as monster.com or careerbuilder.com might want to think again, because these websites can lead straight to dead ends. According to Monster.com, every minute, 29 resumes are uploaded to their website, but how many of those posted resumes and online applications turn into real jobs? The answer is only a few. Many people that use these job-hunting sites never receive any response or invitation for an interview and are left in the cold.

Job-hunting sites such as Monster and CareerBuilder are sites where employers pay to list jobs on their websites. With a completely different strategy, job searching websites Indeed.com and SimplyHired.com act as aggregators which go out and look for job postings instead of charging the employers to post jobs to their sites. These aggregators are like the Google of job searching. They don't charge employers a penny to have their listings on their site, unless the employers want to advertise to promote their job openings.

"Job hunting sites are one piece of an effective job search, but on their own they are not enough. Internship opportunities and networking can be most effective efforts to securing a full time job, but, for students looking online, we recommend Indeed.com and other search engine sites that are specific to an industry" said Tiffany Nelson, Assistant Director of Career Planning.

SimplyHired.com has different filter options for people who want "the perfect job." Applicants can search for companies that are dog friendly, eco friendly, diverse, socially responsible, Fortune 500 companies and many other specifics about a company.

"Career Planning also has its own useful resource for students looking for jobs. LionsLink is where we post part time and full time jobs and internship opportunities. All opportunities on LionsLink are with companies who have contacted Saint Leo and establish a relationship with the University to let them know about open job and internship opportunities for Saint Leo students. Additionally, when students apply at saintleo.edu/lionslink, their resume goes straight to the job recruiter LionsLink is free for all students and alumni," said Nelson.

Robert Hellman, a New York career coach in a Forbes article about job search websites, recommends that people looking for a job only spend about 10 percent of their time on job searching websites because while these websites can lead to job opportunities, there is too much competition online. And when applying for a job online, many employers or job recruiters look for keywords in resumes that are listed on the posting page of the job. Experts say that it is best to change the resume to match specific criteria of the job, but the job seeker should make sure they are qualified for the position first.

For the other 90 percent of the time spent looking for a job, Hellman recommended networking and communicating with the people that hold the key to the jobs that they want. Even if it doesn't mean the perfect position, a "foot in the door" always gives people a good advantage.

Those having a difficult time networking should volunteer with different organizations, get involved in their local government and even seek out the people that they already know to help them find their dream job.

Job hunters should only spend ten percent of their time on job hunting websites and the other 90 percent networking.

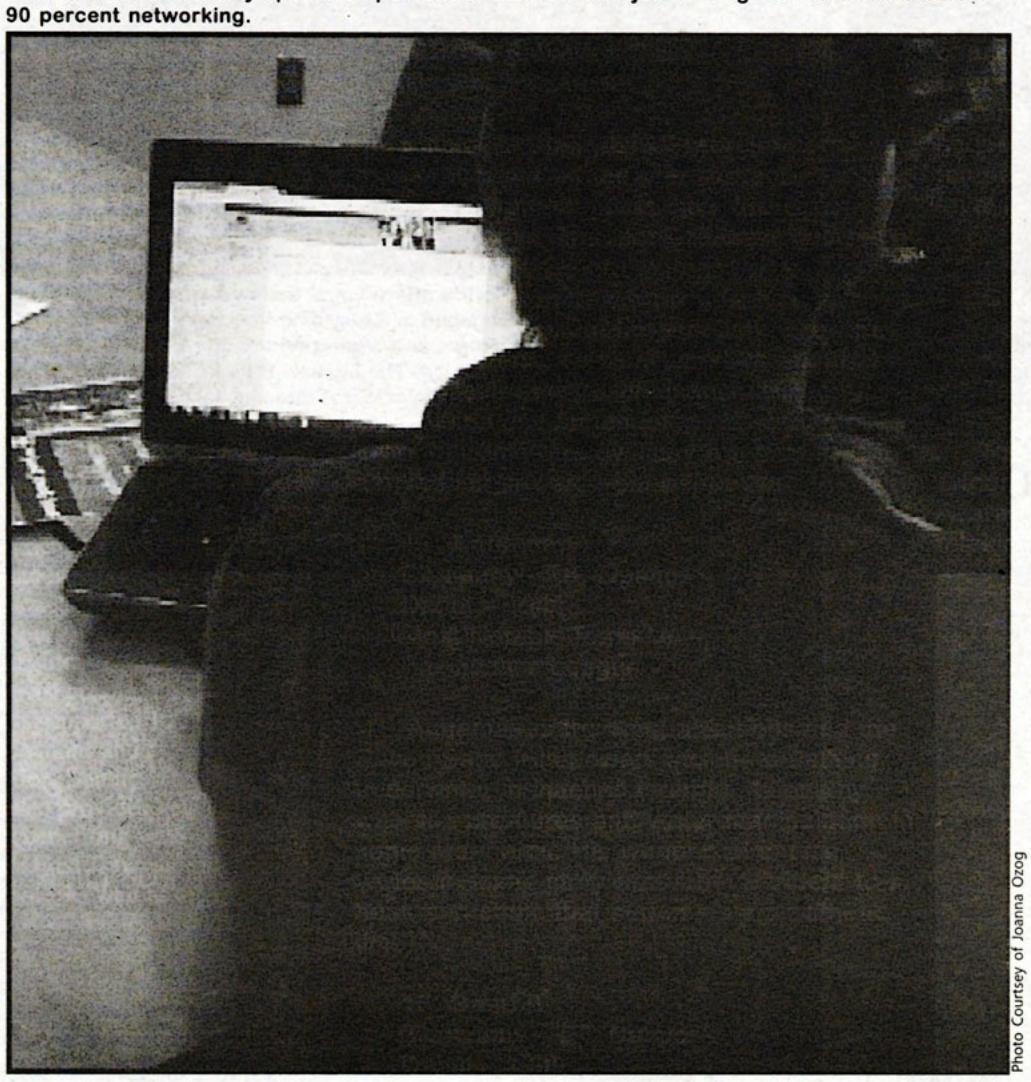

Photo Courtsey of Joanna Ozog

Contact Us

Racheljoy Capitola
Editor in Chief

Ashley Reynolds
Managing Editor

Jessica Miller
Layout Editor

Joanna Ozog
Online Editor

Wendy Legorete
Distribution Manager

Annie Hays
Arts & Entertainment

Mrs. Valerie Kasper
Advisor

Letters To The Editor

- 500 word maxium
- No profane or slanderous language
- Students: Include name and year
- Faculty: Include name and rank
- Please include a phone number to verify authorship
- We reserve the right to edit for grammar/spelling/libel or publish.
- Send submissions to

thelionspridenewspaper@gmail.com

Location

(352) 588-8316
Student Activities Building, Office 106
33701 State Road 52 Saint Leo, FL 33574

National News

One in a Million: Origins of the Lottery

By Nicholas Santos
Staff Writer

Photo courtsey of Florida Lottery twitter.

According to its website, the Florida Lottery has been around for 26 years and has paid out $37 billion in prizes.

When people think about what the lottery is, they usually think of it as just another form of gambling. It's a convenient and rather safe way to try and win money, and, as a result, it is one of the most common forms of gambling. In a sense, this is what the lottery is today; however, the actual origins of the "lotto" reveal that it was used for much more than what one might expect.

The etymology (historical meaning) of the word 'lottery' signifies 'part of a whole to be distributed' and comes from the German word hluet. This word has various versions in other languages, such as lot in English, los in modern German, and lote in Spanish—all roots for the word 'lottery.' According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, a lottery is a "procedure for distributing something among a group of people by lot or by chance."

According to a study by Gerald Willman called History of Lotteries, the first actual use of a game resembling a lottery system is traced back to fifteenth century cities in Italy. Here, a game called bianca carta was created. In this game, a number of colored and white tickets were distributed to players randomly. Players with colored tickets would be considered the winners; players with blank tickets, on the other hand, would be considered the losers. The name of the game, bianca carta, which means "white paper" in Italian, refers to the ludicrously high number of white (losing) tickets in comparison to the number of colored (winning) tickets.

In addition to being in fifteenth century Italy, lottery systems—as a form of entertainment or as a way to assign things like unpopular jobs—can be found in various different regions and time periods. For example, using a system of chance to determine land distribution can be found in the Old Testament. In Japanese and Chinese cultures, lottery systems were used to predict the future. Conversely in Roman times, lottery systems were used to give away property and slaves, and were also used as oracles, interpreting meanings to questions, answers and predictions posed by the people. The lottery was even once considered to be used to help fund the American Revolution. In all of these instances, the lottery was merely considered a simple game or a simple solution to a problem.

Lotteries eventually became a form of gambling in the sixteenth century—or, at least, for particular people. First in Italy, citizens began to place bets on who would be elected for important political positions through a random chance lottery system. The bets were never official, and were only known by the citizens. It quickly became a way for citizen gamblers to have fun with their money—thus, this scenario of citizens betting on the outcome of an event became the true origin of the "lotto."

While a few Italian citizens continued to play their own gambling games, lotteries, with a distinct purpose of earning money rather than just a form of entertainment, started appearing in other areas of Europe. There are two different revenue-based lotteries which could have possibly come first—one in the Kingdom of Belgium, and one in Modena, Italy, both of which were established towards the end of the fifteenth century. The first, which was located in Burgundy and Flanders, part of the Kingdom of Belgium, raised money which was used primarily for profit. This profit was used to either help fortify defenses of the nation or aid the poor. The second, which was located in Modena, Italy, followed a similar purpose.

Eventually, this type of lottery became public, allowing people to earn money for themselves—with the leftover money being used as revenue for the countries. Following this change of direct influence from earlier betting games, the lottery became highly popular, and word of this lottery system spread throughout Europe. In Liguria, Italy, an official public lottery was created. This would become the template for nearly all following lotteries. One example of this is the first national lottery, which was established in Italy in 1863—around the time the Italian nation was unified. This was a product of almost 400 years of lottery history.

In between this time, specifically in the early seventeenth century lotteries were established in England. These lotteries, in contrast to the others before it, didn't have such an easy time finding success—the population of England was mostly split on whether or not this form of gambling should be legal or not, and, as a result, they were banned for ten years (from 1699-1709). It would eventually be outlawed in England in 1826. Despite the fact that these problems persisted in other nations too, such as the United States, the lottery was still successful in those nations, primarily due to its popularity and revenue gain.

Lotteries continued to steadily become the most popular form of public gambling, even with an evenly decreasing chance of winning as the years continued. In recent years, the lottery has managed to stitch itself into the Worldwide Web, allowing for people to gamble from the comfort of their own home. The first "Interlotto" was offered to the public in 1995 under the name PLUS Lotto.

Today, successful lotteries can be found legally in several regions, including Africa, Europe, Japan, the United States, and the Middle East. The largest and most successful lottery out of these is in Australia—located in New South Wales, it sells over one million tickets a week and finances the Sydney Opera House. This lottery also offers cars, homes, and other prizes in addition to money.

With lotteries such as these being able to both make and give away so much money, it may seem questionable whether or not lottery systems—or gambling for that matter—will ever end. With its expansive history lotteries have survived because of its significant impact on national revenue and the popularity it gained from its players. Now that lotteries are finding their way onto the internet, one can only imagine how much lotteries will evolve in the future.

The Chinese Welfare Lottery provides welfare money for China's poor, abd has been around since 1987.

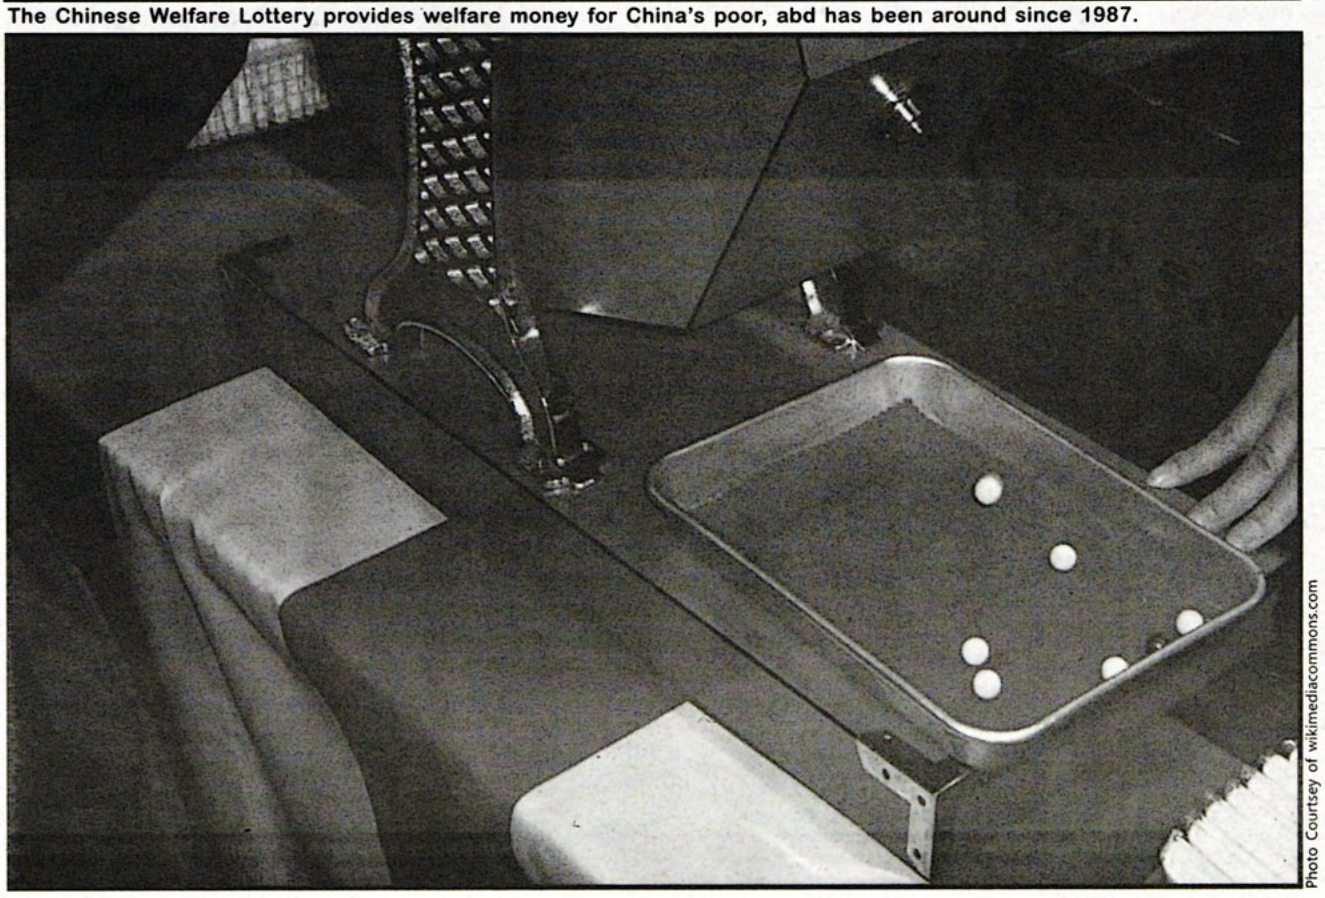

Photo Courtsey of wikimediacommons.com

Local News

Dade City Restaurants

By Jessica Miller
Layout Editor

A Matter of Taste:

Popular items: The manager, Lona Sapp, boasts of the freshness of the salads, especially the chicken and pasta salads. Sapp also says that the most unique and popular items is the Pineapple Brunt.

Offers: Any firefighters or police oficers receive a discount when they come in uniform or if they present ID.

Location: 14121 7th Street, Dade City FL 33525

Brush Company Buffet:

Popular items: While they are a buffet, the pastries, especially pies, go quickly. "The turtle cream pie and dark stain [pie] are the most popular," says head server Tina Davis. The turtle cream pie is composed of chocolate, caramel and pecans, and the dark stain pie is a straight-up chocolate confection of pudding, crust, whipped cream and shavings sprinkled on top.

Offers:

- Buy one, get half of one meal off
- Seniors receive one free drink with either lunch or dinner

Location: 12880 US Highway 301, Dade City, FL 33525

BubbaQue's BBQ:

Popular item: According to owner Shane Kossow. pulled pork sandwiches are a popular pick.

Offers: Many different ones that change weekly. Visit website at http://bubbaquesbbq.com/ for details.

Location: 12710 US Highway 301, Dade City, FL 33525

City Market Bistro:

Popular items: The Bistro sells a variety of pizzas which are baked in a wood-stone deck oven. The best seller is the meatloaf served with gravy and mashed potatoes. And while most desserts alternate, the Almond Cloud, a combination of almond custard and coconut, is available every day. "Nothing is out of a can," says Julie Buckingham, owner.

Offer: 10 percent off for all students, faculty and staff of the University with ID.

Location: 14148 8th Street, Dade City FL 33525

Doc's Bar & Grille:

Popular items: The jumbo wings include a choice of 13 different sauces that range from standard mild to the signature jalapeño ducky sauce. "We also have boneless wings, which are cut fresh daily" says owner Braden Lestingi.

Offers:

- Tuesday: buy 10 wings, get 10 wings
- Saturday: all you can eat crab legs for $23.99
- 10 Percent off checks for veterans and county works with identification or uniform

Location: 14946 US Highway 301, Dade City, FL 33523

Francesco's New York Style Pizza:

Popular items: In a small city that does not have much Italian food, owner Zoey Pasquale speaks highly of her wide variety of Italian dishes: Francesco supreme pizza, calzones, stromboli, seafood carbonado, and eggplant parmesan.

Offers: From Tuesdays to Fridays, between 11:00 A.M. – 4:00 P.M., there are a variety of family specials.

Location: 14418 7th Street, Dade City FL 33523

Heavenly Treasures & Angel Tea:

Popular items: "Have the tea experience," says Brenda Tester, co-owner with Margaret Angell for 17 years. The biggest item is the Rooibos, which is a red tea from South Africa that contains ten times the antioxidants of green tea. Other items include a variety of traditional and exotic teas and homemade foods such as soups, salads, and quiches. This restaurant adds to the experience by also selling tea sets, teas, and tea accessories.

Offers: Those with AAA receive 10 percent off their check.

Location: 37847 Meridian Avenue, Dade City, FL 33525

Kafe Kokopelli:

Popular Items: While the menu changes seasonally, items that maintain a best seller status include fried green tomatoes with goat chesses and steak florentine. Every season there is a featured game animal on the entrée list. Each entrée is uniquely paired with a specific side. The owner, Steven Queens, speaks about always creating a new experience when dining at his restaurant, saying "We don't want to stay stagnate."

Offers:

- Lunch club card is given to customers when they receive their bill. The card gets punched each meal up to six times, then you bring your card in to obtain a seventh meal for free.
- All members of the fire and police department receive 50 percent off their checks when they come in uniform.
- Repeat rewards are offered with sign up at the restaurant. For every $300 spent, those who are signed-up with repeat rewards will receive $15 off coupon in the mail.

Location: 37940 Live Oak Avenue, Dade City, FL 33523

Mallie Kylas Cafe:

Popular items: Owner Laria DeWitt-Hensley has a variety of different specials every day, including quiches, salads, and soups, which are all homemade. A popular dessert choice is the hummingbird cake, which is comprised of crushed pecans, pineapple, and bananas.

Location: 14302 7th Street, Dade City FL 33523

Olga's Bakery and Deli:

Popular items: Breadstick doughnuts, also known as long johns, are rectangular doughnuts filled with butter cream. Cuban sandwiches are also popular. "How we stand out from the rest is that our breads are made fresh... every day," says owner Chris Dious.

Offers: While offers change, the most recurring one is for local students from certain schools. Students who achieve honor roll receive a few doughnuts, and those with straight A's receive a few more.

Location: 14117 7th Street, Dade City FL 33525

Smitty's Smokehouse & Grill:

Popular items: Breakfast is served all day. The Angus hamburgers are never frozen and are MSG free, says owner Danny Smith.

Location: 12830 US Highway 301, Dade City, FL 33525

Steph's Southern Soul Restaurant:

Popular items: Proud owner Steph Reaves, boasts of the fried chicken, fresh collards and rutabagas. Opened for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Location: 14519 5th Street, Dade City FL 33523

Arts & Entertainment

A Poll of SUPER PROPORTIONS

By Austin Chiavaroli & Craig Graves
Staff Writers

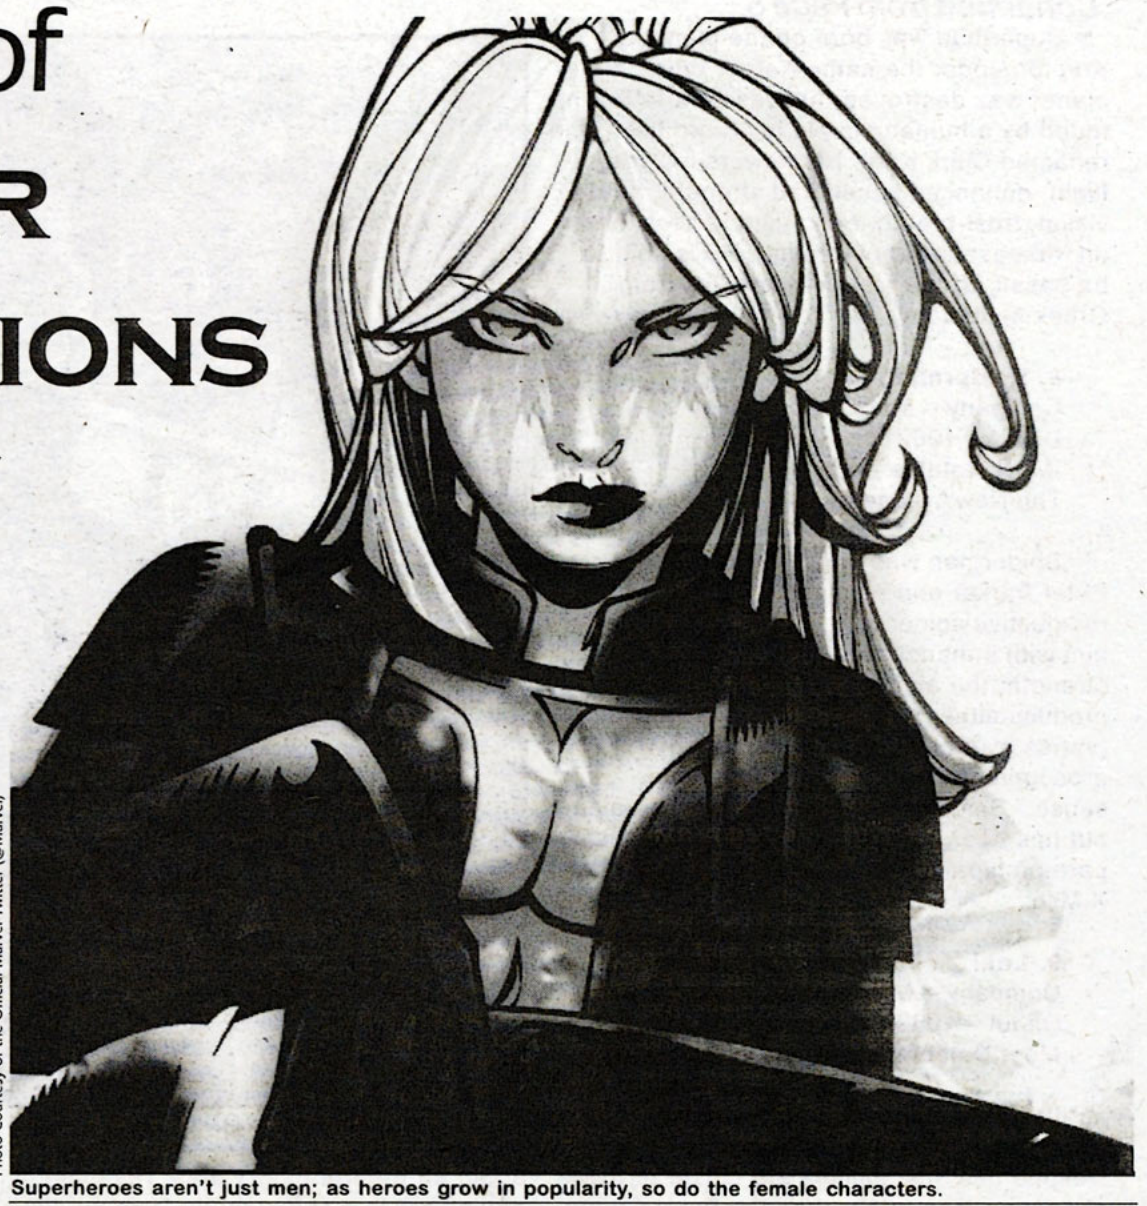

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)

Superheroes aren't just men; as heroes grow in popularity, so do the female characters.

Who is your favorite comic book character? It can be hard to decide which character is your favorite because a lot goes into making a character come to life from the storylines of the comics. The following list is the top twenty comic book characters as decided by students at the University

1. Thor
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1962
Most Notable Team-Up – The Avengers

He was originally called "The Mighty Thor" and is Odin and Gaea's son. He is the God of Lightning and Thunder. As a god, Thor is immortal and immune to illness. His divinity has granted him mystical powers similar to his father's including superior strength. He received acute training in the arts battle and warfare as a part of his upbringing. He is also able to summon and manipulate lightning, enhanced through the use of his magic hammer, Mjölnir.

2. Wonder Woman
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1941
Most Notable Team-Up – The Justice League

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)

Her real name is Diana, an Amazonian Princess. Her main equipment consists of indestructible bracelets, the Lasso of Truth, a magical sword, and a weaponized tiara. Her abilities include increased speed, strength and endurance as well the ability to fly without the use of wings. In 2011, she was rewritten to be a demigoddess.

3. Batman
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1939
Most Notable Team-Up – The Justice League

Batman is actually billionaire, philanthropist and industrialist Bruce Wayne. His parents were murdered in front of him as a child. This event scarred him and inspired his transformation into the world's greatest crime-fighting detective. He is a master of martial arts, strategy, acrobatics, and marksmanship, he is highly skilled in the arts of espionage, has a genius-level IQ, and he has the means to fuel his vigilante justice. His signature weapons are a Batarang and any number of vehicles sporting the prefix of "bat-."

4. Deadpool
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1991
Most Notable Team-Up – N/A

Wade Wilson, also known as Deadpool, is a mutant mercenary trained in martial arts, marksmanship and swordsmanship with the ability to heal much more quickly than an ordinary human. He is infamous with other Marvel superheroes for his comedic personality and incessant talking. His other abilities include breaking the fourth-wall and immunity to telepathy and other psychic powers. He is considered a failed experiment in the Weapon X program. Though he does not officially join any superhero teams, he has jumped around to work with different Marvel superheroes including: Wolverine, Cable and Domino from the X-Men.

5. Iron Man
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1963
Most Notable Team-Up – The Avengers

Outside of his powered armored suit, Iron Man is actually Tony Stark, a wealthy scientist and weaponry engineer. He has had multiple origin story arcs where he was captured by enemies of war and created the robotic suit to save himself. He was then inspired to use the same suit blueprints to create a better suit with which to fight crime. This suit and the others that he created can fly up to a speed of mach 3, and can fire missiles and energy repulsors. The suit can also increase his strength to an extent, perform medical examinations on Stark, and diagnose any mechanical issues with the suit itself.

6. Guardians of the Galaxy
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1969
Most Notable Team-Up – Guardians of the Galaxy

This is a misfit team of criminals lead by Star-Lord, otherwise known as Peter Quill on his home planet of Terra. His teammates include galactic assassin Gamora, a warrior named Drax, a talking raccoon named Rocket with an affinity for weaponry, and a humanoid tree named Groot. Even though they are classified as criminals, they had saved the galaxy on multiple occasions.

Continued to Page 6...

Arts & Entertainment

Continued from Page 5...

Superman was born on the planet of Krypton under the name Kal-el. When his planet was destroyed, he was sent to Earth, found by a human couple in a corn field, and renamed Clark Kent. His powers include flight, enhanced speed and strength, heat-vision, frost-breath, enhanced senses, and an increased rate of healing. He is said to be based off the story of Hercules from Greek Mythology.

8. Spiderman
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1962
Most Notable Team-Up – The New Avengers

Spiderman was originally known as Peter Parker and received his powers from a radioactive spider bite. That bite endowed him with enhanced reflexes, speed and strength, the ability to scale any surface, produce either natural or artificial webbing (varies by storyline), and momentary precognition he often calls his "spider sense." Spiderman in the past worked alone, but has been a part of various teams and partnerships including the Avengers and the X-Men.

9. Loki
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1962
Most Notable Team-Up – N/A

Loki is the adoptive son of Odin in Norse Mythology, but is a Frost Giant by birth. Despite this, his abilities are closer to those of Asguardians rather than the Frost Giants. Loki, like Thor, is immortal and immune to illness. He is also able to shape-shift, cast illusions, fly and fire blasts of energy at a target. In mythology, he is known as the Trickster God.

10. Captain America
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1941
Most Notable Team-Up – The Avengers

Steve Rogers wanted to be a soldier but was not physically fit enough to join the army. To make up for this, he joined a Super Soldier program in which he was genetically altered to become a stronger, faster and more physically fit soldier. He fought in World War II and afterwards was cryogenically frozen until he was needed again for different story arcs. His main equipment is a shield made from an alloy of steel and vibranium. He is considered a natural leader.

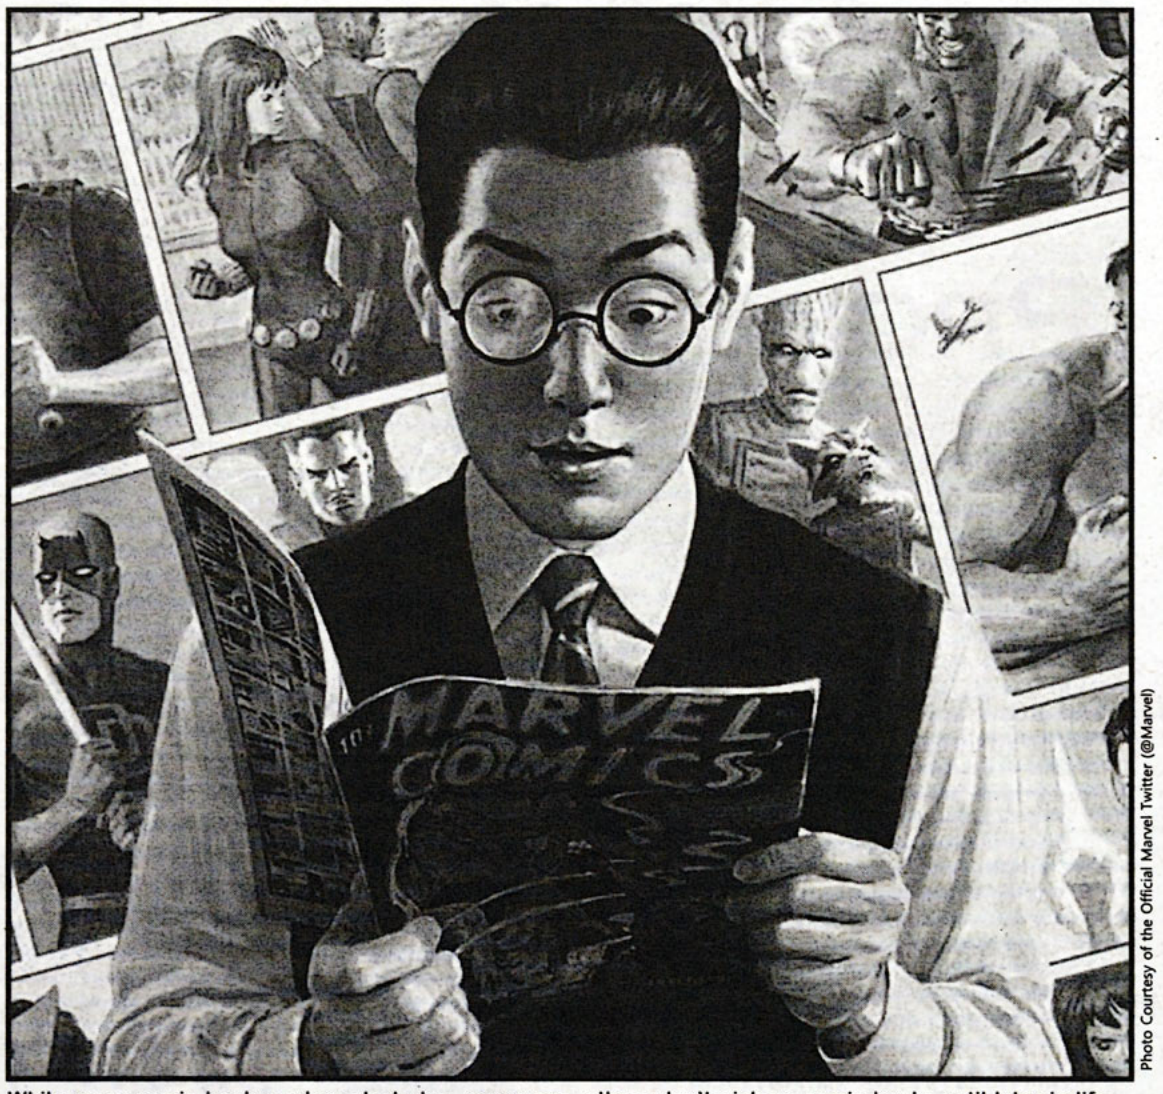

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)

While many comic book readers start at a young age, others don't pick up comic books until later in life.

11. Storm
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1975
Most Notable Team-Up – X-Men

Storm was born Ororo Munroe in New York City and is a mutant descended from a shaman in Africa. Her abilities include weather manipulation and, through her lineage to the African shaman, some witchcraft or sorcery depending upon the story arc. Storm, since her debut in Marvel Comics, has spent most of her time with the X-Men, though she has been on other teams such as the Avengers and the Morlocks. She also served as the queen of Wakanda during her marriage to the Black Panther who she eventually divorced.

12. Wolverine
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1974
Most Notable Team-Up – X-Men

Wolverine did not always have his adamantium metal claws and skeleton. When he discovered his mutant powers, his claws were made of reinforced bone marrow and he had an enhanced rate of healing. Eventually, he was enlisted in the Weapon X program and had adamantium infused on his skeleton, which caused his claws to become metallic. Thanks to his healing abilities, he is virtually immortal. Though he's known for working with the X-Men, Wolverine has been in many other groups and has done a fair amount of solo work.

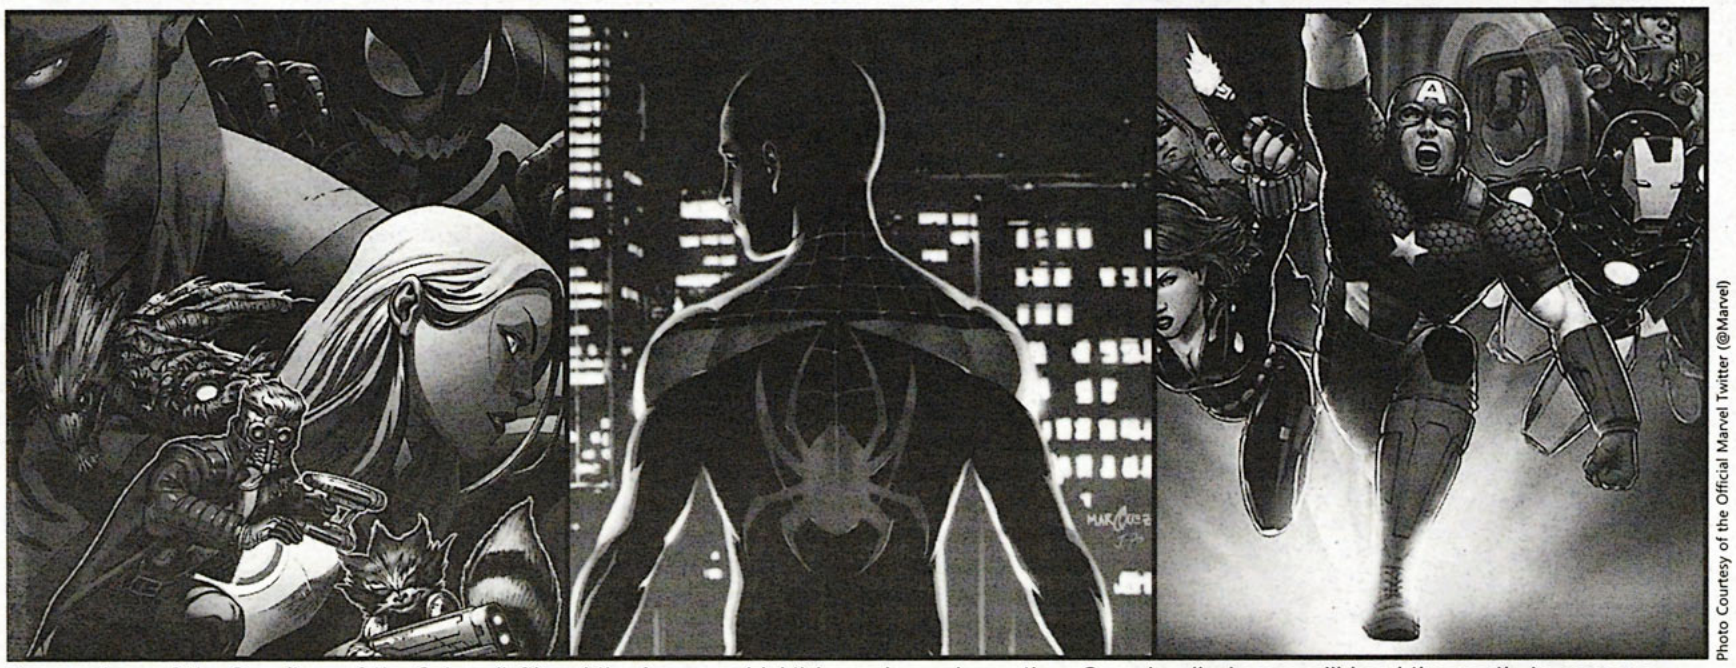

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)

The members of the Guardians of the Galaxy (left) and the Avengers (right) have changed over time. Occasionally, heroes will hand the mantle to someone else, as is the case with Miles Morales, the new Spiderman (center).

Arts & Entertainment

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)

Thor and Loki, two of Marvel's most popular characters, are based on Norse mythology and legend. They recently have gained in popularity since the release of Thor, Thor 2 and the Avengers.

13. Flash
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1940
Most Notable Team-Up –
The Justice League

There have been four major characters to call themselves the Flash since the debut of the superhero. Possibly the most notable is Wally West who gained his powers from a spill of electrically charged chemicals. These powers include superhuman speed verging on the speed of light, enhanced reflexes and immunity to certain laws of physics such as intangibility and, in some instances, time travel. A running gag involving Flash and Superman is to see who would win a race between them, though all past races ended in draws as a result of outside forces.

14. Green Lantern
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1940
Most Notable Team-Up –
The Justice League

Similar to the Flash, Green Lantern is a mantle that more than one character has had at the same time. In fact, the Green Lantern many comic book readers know is a member of the Green Lantern Corps. Possibly the two best known Green Lanterns are Hal Jordan and John Stewart. All Green Lanterns wear an alien ring that houses their powers which include flight, force fields and summoning constructs of solid light and energy. They are also said to derive their powers from will-power

15. Aquaman
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1941
Most Notable Team-Up –
The Justice League

Aquaman is the King of Atlantis and the Seven Seas. His powers include breathing underwater, enhanced strength, telepathy with sea creatures and water manipulation in some story arcs. His weapon of choice varies in some story arcs from a trident to a hook and chain that serves as a prosthetic limb.

16. Gambit
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1990
Most Notable Team-Up – X-Men

Gambit, like a few previous characters in this list, has played on both sides of the 'Good vs. Evil' divide, which could classify him as an antihero similar to Deadpool. His mutant powers grant him enhanced athletic abilities like speed, strength, dexterity and flexibility and allow him to convert the potential energy of objects into explosive kinetic energy. He also has a knack for persuading others to do what he wants, though only if the subject is unaware of Gambit's hypnotic charisma.

17. Martian Manhunter
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1955
Most Notable Team-Up –
The Justice League

Martian Manhunter hails from Mars where his is known as J'onn J'onzz. He has had many adventures with other DC characters such as Superman, Stargirl and Green Arrow. His powers include superhuman strength, endurance and speed, shape-shifting, intangibility, invisibility, telepathy, telekinesis, flight and a genius-level intellect.

18. Raven
Company – DC Comics
Debut – 1980
Most Notable Team-Up –
Teen Titans

Raven is the half-demon daughter of Trigon, ruler of an alternate dimension, Azarath. Her abilities include flight, telekinesis, manipulation of darkness and time, alteration of memory, linguistics, martial arts, sorcery and clairvoyance just to name a few. She is most notably a member of the Teen Titans, a group of younger superheroes often called "sidekicks."

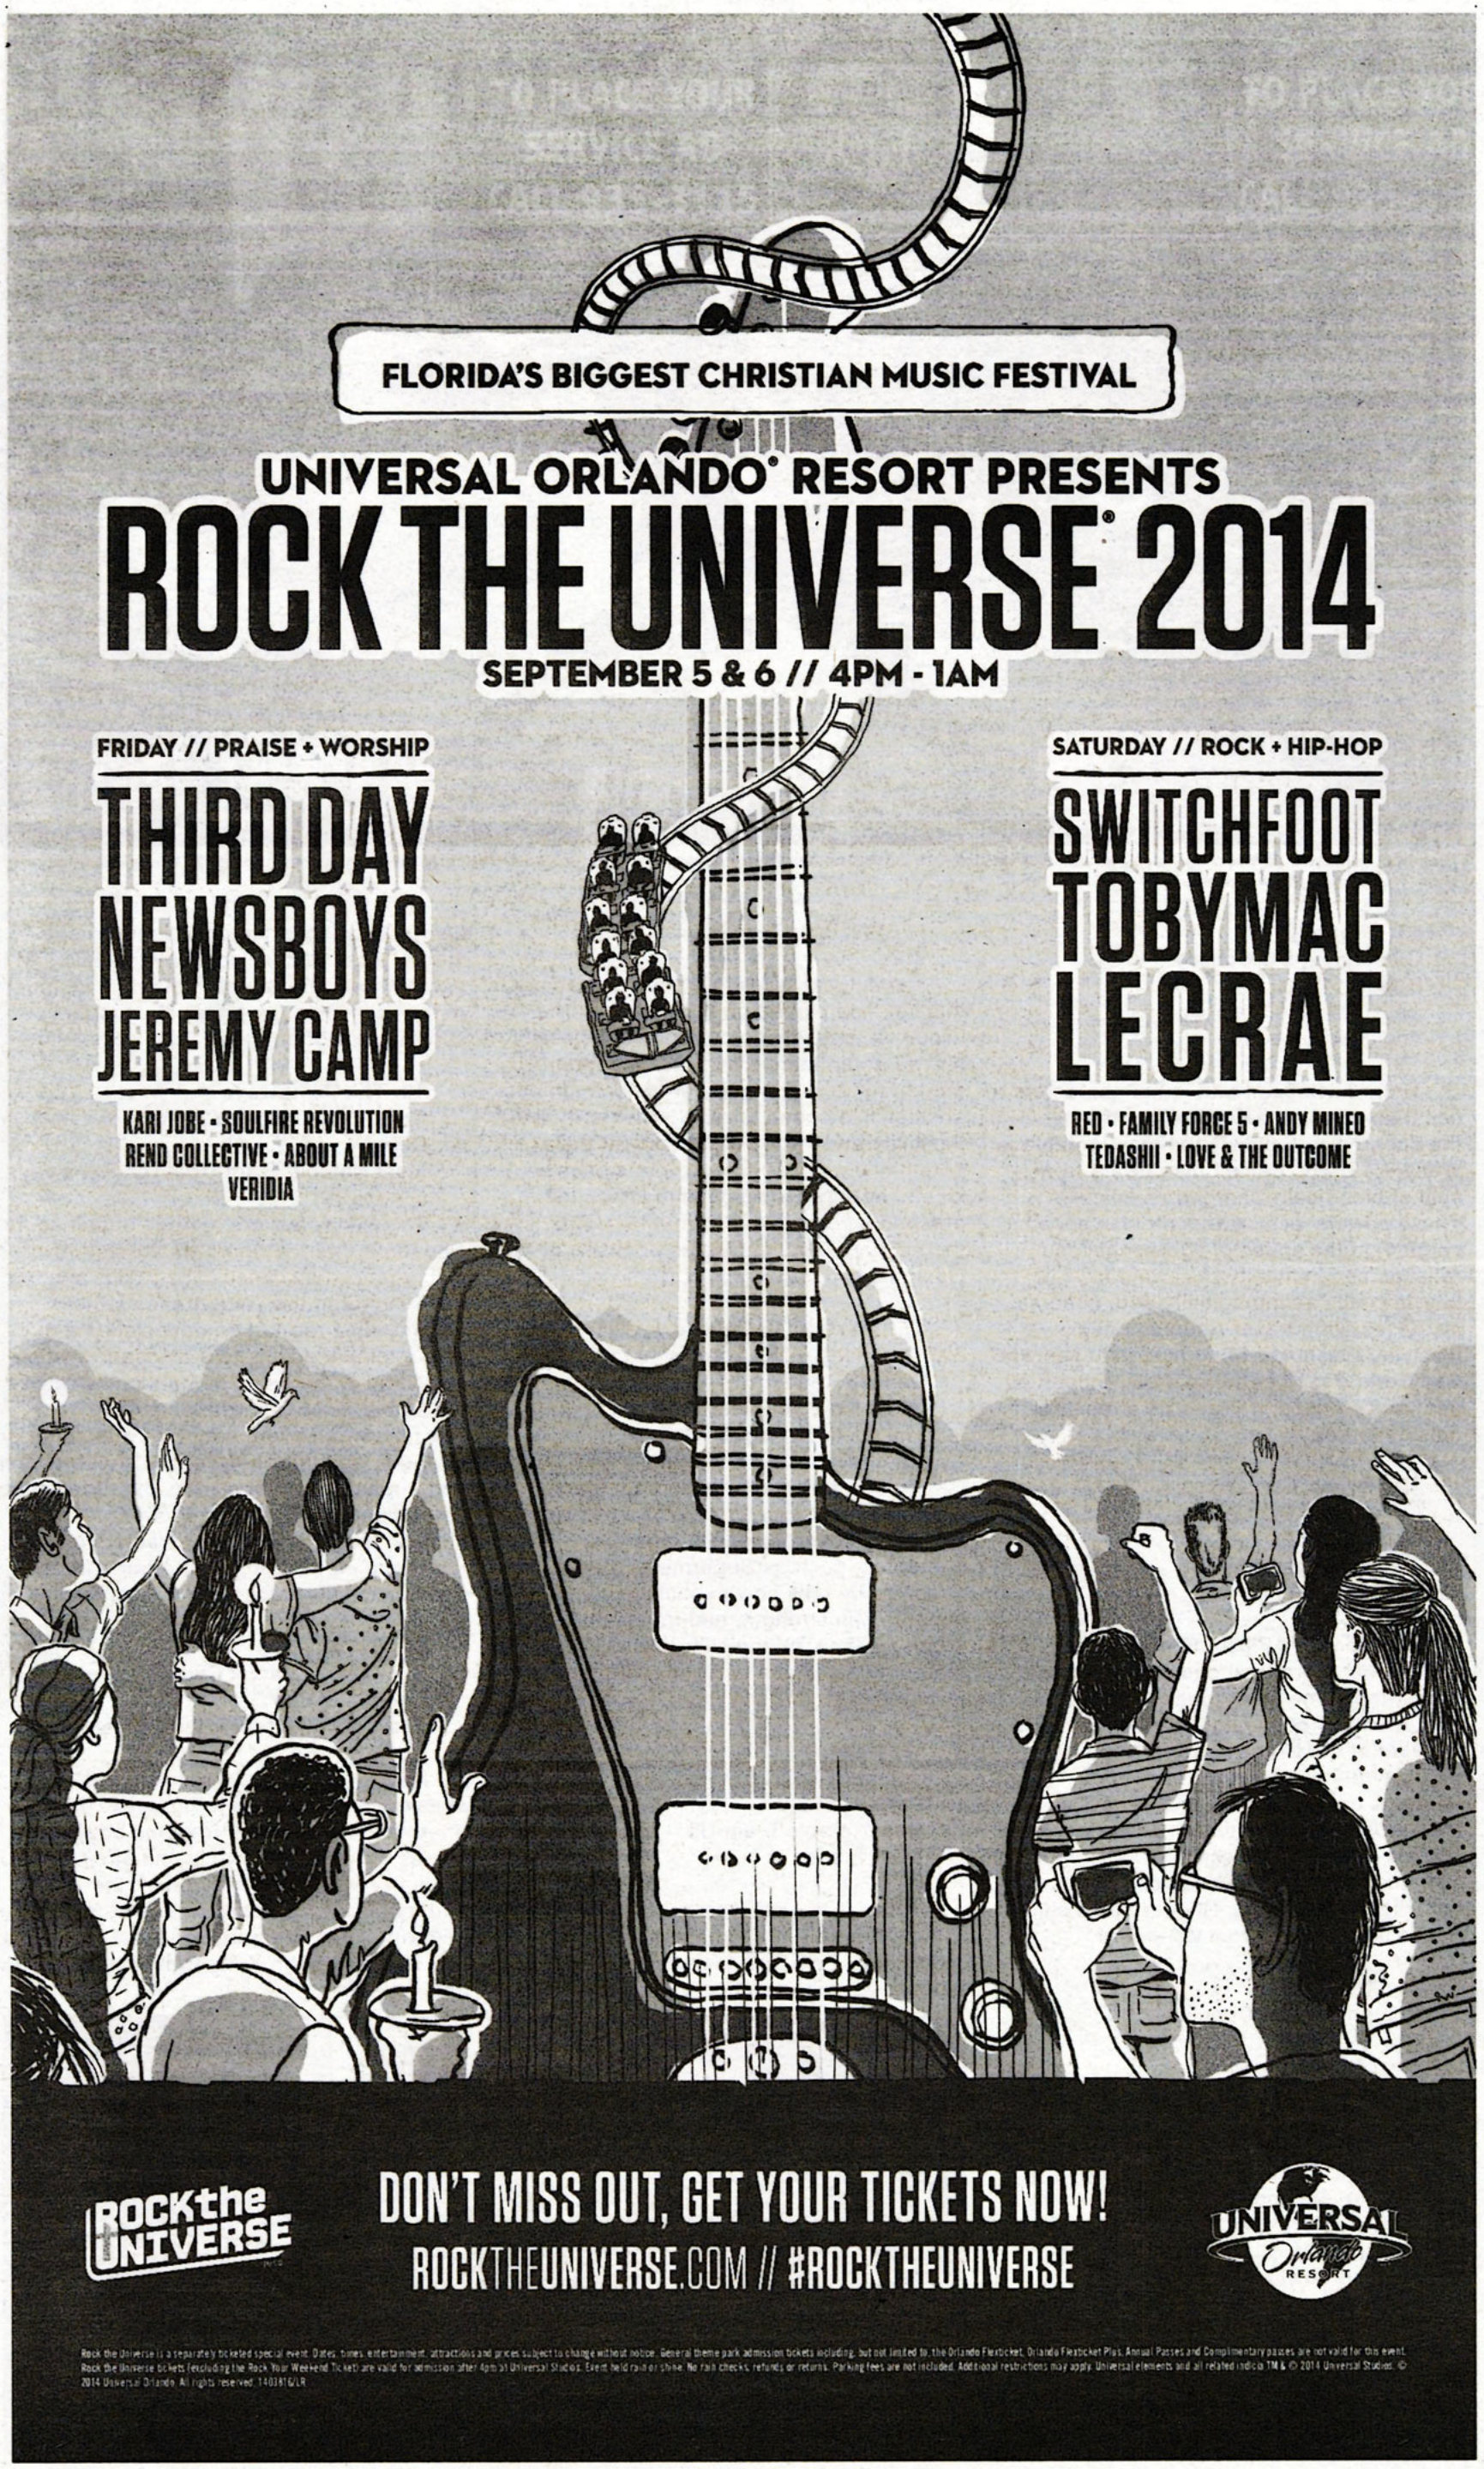
19. The Runaways
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 2003
Most Notable Team-Up – The Runaways

The Runaways are a group of teenagers who learn that their parents are part of an evil organization called "The Pride" and they have inherited the same traits as their parents. The rag-tag group includes a girl with a telepathic link to a dinosaur, a witch, a prodigy in the fields of logic and strategy the son of scientists with advanced technology, an alien, a mutant with superior strength, and later a cyborg, a shape-shifter and a manipulator of plants. Over the course of the publication of "The Runaways" comics, two of the main characters died and the group made cameos in other comic books and story arcs.

20. Havok
Company – Marvel Comics
Debut – 1969
Most Notable Team-Up – X-Men

Havok, or Alexander Summers, is a mutant with the ability to harness cosmic energy and emanate it from his body in pulses or waves of hot plasma at a target. He is the brother of Cyclops of the X-Men and has played on both sides of the battles involving the X-Men, though most of his time was spent with the X-Men rather than against them.

Photo Courtesy of the Official Marvel Twitter (@Marvel)



FLORIDA'S BIGGEST CHRISTIAN MUSIC FESTIVAL
UNIVERSAL ORLANDO® RESORT PRESENTS
ROCK THE UNIVERSE® 2014
SEPTEMBER 5 & 6 // 4PM - 1AM
FRIDAY // PRAISE + WORSHIP
THIRD DAY
NEWSBOYS
JEREMY CAMP
KARI JOBE • SOULFIRE REVOLUTION
REND COLLECTIVE • ABOUT A MILE
VERIDIA
SATURDAY // ROCK + HIP-HOP
SWITCHFOOT
TOBYMAC
LECRAE
RED • FAMILY FORCE 5 • ANDY MINEO
TEDASHII • LOVE & THE OUTCOME
ROCKthe UNIVERSE
DON'T MISS OUT, GET YOUR TICKETS NOW!
ROCKTHEUNIVERSE.COM // #ROCKTHEUNIVERSE
UNIVERSAL Orlando RESORT
Rock the Universe is a separately ticketed special event. Dates, times, entertainment, attractions and prices subject to change without notice. General theme park admission tickets including, but not limited to, the Orlando Flexticket, Orlando Flexticket Plus, Annual Passes and Complimentary passes are not valid for this event. Rock the Universe tickets (excluding the Rock Your Weekend Ticket) are valid for admission after 4pm at Universal Studios. Event held rain or shine. No rain checks, refunds or returns. Parking fees are not included. Additional restrictions may apply. Universal elements and all related indicia TM & © 2014 Universal Studios. © 2014 Universal Orlando. All rights reserved. 1403816/LR